1,700 SOAR to regional economic summit in Pike

by Lilly Adkins

PIKEVILLE – A crowd of 1,700 attended the Shaping Our Appalachian Region (SOAR) summit Monday at the East Kentucky Exposition Center in Pikeville as officials discussed plans and strategies for economic development in Eastern Kentucky.

The loss of approximately 6,000 coal industry jobs in the last 18 months throughout Eastern and Southern Kentucky prompted the event.

Gov. Steve Beshear and U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers worked together to arrange the summit, inviting everyone the opportunity to offer ideas on how to move Eastern Kentucky forward.

Beshear said he thinks it's time that everyone began thinking more as a region and to formulate new ideas and a new plan for diversification in the region.

Numerous political figures and business leaders spoke during the event. Many of them spoke of the effect the loss of the coal jobs has had on the economy in Eastern Kentucky and on the families of the miners. All agreed that working together is a good idea and working to create new businesses, to expand existing businesses and generate new indus-

PIKEVILLE — Six people were indicted last week on federal charges of conspiring to distribute heroin, cocaine and oxycodone in Johnson and Floyd counties.

Named in a four-count federal indictment returned Thursday were Robert J. Haddox, James E. DeRossett, Billy Jerome Shepherd, Phillip Morgan Joseph, John C. Barnett and Tara Huff. Their ages and addresses were not available at press time.

The indictment claims the defendants conspired to knowingly and intentionally distribute controlled substances, including mixtures and substances containing detectable amounts of heroin, cocaine and oxycodone, in Johnson and Floyd counties from March 22 to Dec. 5 of this year.

The indictment says DeRossett, Joseph and Huff allegedly distributed heroin in Floyd County on March 22; DeRossett and Joseph allegedly possessed with the intent to distribute heroin in Floyd County on April 2; and Shepherd and Barnett allegedly possessed with the intent to distribute heroin, cocaine and oxycodone in Johnson County on May 2.

If convicted, the defendants face 20 years in prison and a $1 million fine.

Editor's note: An indictment is not an indication of guilt but a determination by a grand jury that criminal charges warrant further judicial review.

PIKEVILLE — Three defendants have been added to an amended complaint filed against a Floyd County attorney and a retired Social Security Administration (SSA) judge accused of defrauding the federal government of millions of dollars in unjustified disability claims.

A second amended complaint was filed Dec. 6 by current SSA employee Sarah Carver and former SSA employee Jennifer L. Griffith, who allege that attorney Eric C. Conn and retired administrative law judge David B. Daugherty devised a scheme to defraud the government through false SSA disability claims.

SOAR: 1,700 attend regional economic summit

try in the area that can lead to higher wage positions is a great idea. But they said it is not something that would happen overnight.

“A century from now I’d like it to be said that on a cold December 9, 2013, Eastern Kentucky began a revitalization that resulted in a new Eastern Kentucky, that we began to SOAR into a future of opportunity for the long-suffering people,” Rogers said.

Both Beshear and Rogers agreed that while they can offer assistance from the state and federal levels, it is up to the people in the affected areas to let them know what they want and to work together toward achieving their goals.

Former Gov. Paul Patton talked about just how bad a shape Eastern Kentucky is in and how much worse it is going to get over the next five years.

“In 13 major coal-producing counties in Eastern Kentucky, we’ve lost 43.1 percent of our coal jobs in the last 21 months, and as bad as that is, it’s not over,” Patton said. “There are going to be 31 coal-burning power plants that purchased coal from these counties in the last year that will close in the next five years. It’s not over. We’ll probably, hopefully, level off in about five years with about 30 percent of as much coal jobs as we have now.”

Patton said that an average job is worth about $43,000 but that a coal job is about $81,000.

“We don’t want minimum-wage jobs, but we’re not going to be able to get too many $81,000 jobs,” Patton said. “We want to look at new ways to bring money in, but we want to equally look for ways to keep money here.”

“I’m getting ready to finish up my 26th year in the Kentucky House of Representatives, and it’s been a tremendous honor for me, and I’ve had a chance to go to many, many meetings to talk about the economy of Eastern Kentucky and what we can do to make it a sustaining economy for a long time and we’ve talked the talk for a long time and now it’s time for us to walk the walk,” House Majority Leader Rocky Adkins said. “We’re not starting from scratch, but we’ve got a lot of work to do. I just want to say, like many of you, I’m Eastern Kentucky from the top of my head to the bottom of my feet and proud of it, and I know you are too. I want to have the same kind of communities and same kind of region and same type of hope than any other region throughout this country or throughout this world have.”

After hearing numerous speakers throughout the day, Beshear said he had heard a lot of “great ideas” and from what he had witnessed at the summit he was hopeful that it would be possible to turn it into a substantive long-term effort.

Beshear also said all ideas from the summit and the SOAR Web site will be compiled. Within about 30 days, a planning committee will create a report summarizing the recommendations along with its own recommendation on how the SOAR initiative should be sustained.

Beshear said he and Rogers will review the report and within 30 days will announce plans to implement an administrative infrastructure.

“Exactly what the infrastructure will look like depends on the recommendation of the planning committee,” Beshear said. “It’s obvious that some sort of public/private organization must be created to report on the accountability to the ongoing effort to improve the economy and the quality of life of this region.”

Rogers said he was impressed with the turnout and that all ideas would be considered, no matter how big or how small.

“We’re accessible for tourism,” Rogers said. “We’re accessible for high tech data processing, manufacturing, and a big array of thriving opportunities.”

Rogers also pointed out that Kentucky stands out because of the country music talent that is born here, such as Loretta Lynn, Patty Loveless, Ricky Skaggs, Wynona Judd and Keith Whitley — all Eastern Kentucky natives.

“Our best resource is our people,” Rogers said. “In today’s world where technology connects us with opportunities across the globe, we can offer the hardest working workforce in the nation and the world, without ever leaving our beloved Appalachian region. The governor and I foresee a major broadband highway across this region connecting us to the national grid. The Center for Rural Development is finishing up a feasibility study. We’re going to make eastern Kentucky what I like to call silicon holler. We’re going to overcome our problems and the determination, perseverance, heart, sweat and blood that the people of eastern Kentucky have had to suffer through all these generations is come to you and me. We’re it, and we’re either going to sink or swim.”

FIELDS: W.Va. suspect arrested in Martin County

uty Randall Pratt.

According to the complaint, the incident occurred Dec. 5 at approximately 3 a.m., one mile south of Stroud’s Hardware in Dunlow, W. Va.

Pratt said in his complaint that he responded to a report of a home invasion robbery and upon his arrival he made contact with the victim, identified as Eugene Ray III, who stated that he was house sitting for his uncle, Henry (Joey) Marcum, who was in the hospital and that an unknown male came to the residence at approximately 1 a.m. asking to use the phone. The man claimed that he wanted to call for help because he ran out of gas, so Ray let him use the phone and he left.

At approximately 2:15 a.m., someone knocked on the door again, the complaint said, and answered the door. He observed an unknown male wearing a red hooded jacket and a red piece of cloth around his face.

Ray alleged that he tried to shut the door and the male forced the door open and hit him in the head with something. A second male began striking him, forcing him face down in the hallway floor. One male held him down and held what he thought was a gun to his head, the complaint said.

Ray stated that one of the males made his girlfriend, identified as Abigail Smith, and two of his juvenile cousins, one 15-years-old and the other 8-years-old, sit on the couch in the living room while he let a third male in the rear door of the residence, the complaint said.

Pratt said in his complaint that he then spoke with Smith, who stated that one of the males was wearing a black hoodie and the other was wearing camouflage pants. Two of the males went to the hallway and asked what was in the rooms down the hall. Ray stated it was the children’s rooms, and the males turned and went to the master bedroom and found a black safe. All three males then ran out with the safe and left the residence.

Ray told Pratt that he tried to call for help after they left, but they had cut the phone lines and he went to the neighbor’s house to use the phone.

Pratt said in the complaint that he observed a laceration to the right side of Ray’s head and that his shirt was torn.

Pratt also said in the complaint that he made contact with Marcum, the homeowner, who said he came home from the hospital and was checking the number that the unknown male had called, using the redial feature on his phone, and recognized the number as belonging to one of his wife’s friends, Georgia Dillon. He said that he and her husband, Joseph Isaac Dillon, had gotten into an argument over a year ago over an ATV and Isaac had no reason to be at his residence. He said he suspected Isaac having something to do with the break-in and that Ray had told him that he recognized the voice of one of the other suspects to be Clancy Fields, also known as Boog.

Pratt said in his complaint that he asked where the two suspects lived, and Marcum said he knew Isaac lived in Dempsey Apartments at Warfield and that all the contents in the safe were valued at over $1,000.

Pratt made contact with the Martin County Sheriff’s Office and the Kentucky State Police, who assisted in the investigation, and also contacted Isaac at his residence in Dempsey Apartments.

“He stated that he drove Clancy Fields, David Hampton and Kevin Newsome over to Dunlow (W.Va.) and dropped them off at a residence and parked up the road, a short time later they came back to the vehicle carrying a safe and loaded it into the vehicle,” Pratt said in the complaint. “Isaac drove to what he thought the name of the road was the left fork of Bull Mountain, David and Clancy used a pry bar to open the safe and get some of the contents out of the safe and then they threw the safe into the river off a bridge. Isaac stated they drove to the Fast Lane gas station in Lovely where he purchased $25 worth of gas using the rolled change from the safe and they all went back to Dempsey Apartments.”

Pratt also said in his complaint that he obtained a video statement from Isaac and that he said Newsome was wearing the red jacket that was recovered as evidence and placed in as evidence at the Wayne County Sheriff’s Office as well as the pry bar that was used during the crime.

Anyone with information is urged to contact the Martin County Sheriff’s Office at (606) 298-2828, Kentucky State Police at (606) 433-7711 or West Virginia authorities at (304) 272-6378.

apparently been missing since late Thursday into early Friday between midnight and 1 a.m.

“He told them he was going to go borrow a four-wheeler and that he would be back, but he didn’t come back,” Muncy said. “There was another call at around 3 a.m. of a four-wheeler accident in Tomahawk, near the Johnson County line. It was a four-wheeler matching the description of the one he was to have borrowed over an embankment, crashed. The man matching the description of the man reported missing was over there too. The deputy coroner is ruling the death as blunt force trauma as a result of the crash. The family found him.”

Mollett is survived by his wife, Tonya Hall Mollett; a son, Shane Hall of Paintsville; three daughters, Hannah Mollett, Shauntae Mollett and Kayla Hall, all of Tomahawk; a brother, Billy Mollett of Grove City, Ohio, three sisters, Sherry Wallen and Connie Barton, both of Inez, and Pamela Norman of Pikeville; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were Tuesday at the Phillip Cove Freewill Baptist Church, with burial in the Mollett Family Cemetery at Tomahawk.

CONN: Amended suit filed against attorney, others

amended their suit for a second time to include physicians David P. Herr of Ohio and Srinivas Ammisetty of Stanville and Pikeville psychologist Bradley Adkins as defendants.

"Conn, with the cooperation of Defendants Herr, Adkins, and Ammisetty, created and presented false medical documentation; and, Daugherty, after conducting sham proceedings, granted representative fees to Conn and disability benefits to Conn's clients," the amended complaint says. "The fraudulent scheme resulted in the Social Security Administration paying millions of dollars in fraudulent representatives' fees to Conn, and many times that amount in fraudulent benefits to those of Conn's clients who were not entitled to them."

The suit claims Herr, Ammisetty and Adkins submitted fraudulent letters that were later submitted to the SSA as part of the alleged scheme.

"The letters . . . typically recite that the physician or psychologist who signed them reviewed the claimants' medical history and examined the claimant, and identify the date on which he or she purportedly performed this work," the suit says. "In fact, for many, if not most of the Conn Claims, the letters . . . were false or fraudulent in that the consulting physician or psychologist's review of records and/or examination of the claimant was perfunctory or nonexistent, in contradiction to the letters' description."

In October, attorneys for Carver and Griffith filed a motion for a preliminary injunction ordering Conn, his law firm and "all those in concert or privity with him to immediately cease and desist from dissipating any and all interest acquired and maintained as a result of law before" the SSA in an amount at least equal to the $22,699,586.65.

That's the amount Conn, his law firm and others received as attorney's fees and costs from the SSA as a result of disability claims filed with the agency, according to the motion.

U.S. District Judge Amul R. Thapar dismissed the motion Tuesday, noting the second amended suit, which he says "differs substantially from the previous version of the complaint."

"Both the plaintiffs' motion for an injunction and Conn's response therefore refer to an obsolete version of the complaint," Thapar said, adding that Carver and Griffith can file another motion for a preliminary injunction that refers to the updated suit.

"Such a filing will allow both parties to address the plaintiffs' likelihood of success on the merits in light of the relevant allegations," Thapar wrote.

Conway appeals PSC decision

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

FRANKFORT — Attorney General Jack Conway filed an appeal Wednesday, Dec. 4, on the October decision of the Public Service Commission (PSC) regarding Louisa's Big Sandy Power Plant in Louisa.

The PSC granted approval for Kentucky Power to purchase 50 percent of a West Virginia plant instead of retrofitting the Big Sandy Plant near Louisa.

Conway filed the appeal asking Franklin Circuit Court to vacate and set aside the commission's findings on multiple legal grounds, a press release issued by the attorney general said.

"The recent ruling by the Kentucky Public Service Commission approving this transaction will place more than a half a billion dollars into Kentucky Power's rate base and will ultimately raise consumers' electric rates by more than 20 percent," Conway said. "It will also transfer energy production to a neighboring state and leave Kentucky consumers paying the bill. That's just not right."

On Oct. 7, the PSC approved Kentucky Power's proposal to purchase from its unregulated affiliate, Ohio Power Co., a 50 percent interest in the Mitchell Generating Station in Moundsville, W. Va., at an estimated cost of $536 million. The PSC accepted the terms of a partial settlement and stipulation to which the attorney general did not join.

In its findings, the PSC accepted Kentucky Power's assertion that the Mitchell Plant acquisition was less costly than retrofitting the Big Sandy coal-fired unit with environmental controls.

"The Commission declined to follow its administrative counterpart — the Virginia State Corporation Commission — that declined to approve a related transaction by Appalachian Power Company because the company failed to demonstrate reasonable market alternatives to support its claim that a 50 percent interest in Mitchell was the least-cost option for consumers," the release from Conway said.

In his appeal to Franklin Circuit Court, Conway asserts that the findings of the PSC were unreasonable and unlawful because they relied on evidence presented by Kentucky Power and its corporate parent company that could not be independently verified.

"The analysis used by Kentucky Power and accepted without independent verification by the Commission is simply an apples-to-oranges comparison and is not a reliable basis for the Commission's decision," Conway said. "The Commission should seek additional, independent information, if it is going to raise electric rates for consumers and eliminate Kentucky jobs."

Conway also said in his release that "the Commission failed to consider the economic feasibility of Kentucky Power's plan and neglected the public policy interests of Kentucky, as expressed by the General Assembly."

In the complaint filed with Franklin Circuit Court, Conway said the General Assembly and Kentucky courts have held that the use of Kentucky coal and the continuation of jobs and other economic benefits constitute a legitimate government interest.

Air Evac Lifeteam, an emergency air medical service, has opened a base in Inez. The crew, which includes a pilot, registered nurse and paramedic, is on duty 24 hours a day to serve residents and hospitals throughout the area. Working with local hospitals and EMS agencies, crews can respond directly to the scenes of medical emergencies or make transports between medical facilities. This cuts the amount of time it takes for patients to receive emergency medical care.

PRESTONSBURG — U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers has named Adam Rice as his new field representative for Eastern Kentucky.

Rice will serve 15 counties in the Fifth Congressional District, including Breathitt, Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Morgan, Rowan, Perry and Pike.

"Adam was born and raised in Paintsville and knows first-hand, many of the issues and concerns of the people of our region," said Rogers. "Adam's experience as an educator, counselor and coach will be beneficial in this new role, and I am confident that he will be a great resource for Eastern Kentuckians."

Rice has a bachelor's degree in history from Eastern Kentucky University and is past year and a half as a substance abuse counselor.

"I count it a privilege to work in my hometown region and I look forward to helping improve Eastern Kentucky along-side Congressman Rogers," said Rice. "I believe improvements in education and accessing more opportunities are key factors for the betterment of our region and I'm eager to be a part of the new SOAR: Shaping Our Appalachian Region initiative to pave a new path forward for our future."

Rice will be working along-side Shannon Rickett, Rogers' field representative for the western half of the district.

Rice lives in Paintsville and will work out of the Prestonsburg and Hazard district offices.

Ky. Power files application

by Lilly Adkins
ASSOCIATE EDITOR

FRANKFORT — Kentucky Power announced Monday that it has filed an application for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity with the Kentucky Public Service Commission to convert Unit 1 at its Big Sandy Power Plant in Louisa from a coal-fired unit to a natural gas-fired unit.

The application was filed Dec. 6 and is commensurate with a stipulated settlement agreement in the Mitchell Transfer case approved by the PSC Oct. 14.

As part of the agreement with the PSC, Kentucky Power agreed to file the request to convert the 278-megawatt coal-fired unit to burn natural gas so long as the cost of the project didn't exceed $60 million.

Kentucky Power is seeking approximately $50 million in conversion costs in its request and says it is a least-cost option for replacing generation lost from Unit 1 when it is retired in 2015 because it will no longer comply with federal environmental standards after that time.

After the natural gas conversion, the unit will have a generation capacity of approximately 268 megawatts.

"Converting this unit is something we committed to do when we accepted the stipulated settlement agreement in October," Greg Pauley, president and chief operating officer of Kentucky Power, said. "We have determined that the conversion of Unit 1 is a least-cost option for meeting our customers' electricity needs. In addition, it will allow us to retain a corporate presence in Lawrence County for years to come, contributing to the employment and tax bases of the region."

The company estimates the Big Sandy Plant will continue to employ 20-30 full-time workers once the conversion is completed and approximately 130 temporary jobs at the peak of the conversion construction project.

Kentucky Power said in the press release that it anticipates having the converted unit online by mid-2016.

CORNETTE: Man found guilty in fatal crash

appeal the verdict and will remain free on bond until the appeal is heard.

Officers reportedly tested Cornette for alcohol at the scene, and the tests showed no alcohol in his system.

Cornette admitted on the witness stand that he had taken a Percocet 5 at approximately noon the day before the incident occurred for a toothache, but had not taken anything else.

Cornette said during his testimony that he had voluntarily gone to the hospital for a drug test.

Wayne County sheriff's deputy Randall Pratt testified that he responded to the collision and that the girl had already been taken to the hospital by the time he arrived.

Pratt and the prosecutor reportedly presented photographs to Magistrate John Cavins showing the scene and identifying where the vehicle went off the road as well as the injuries suffered by the girl.

Witnesses reportedly testified that Cornette was speeding and that the little girl was standing a foot or two away from the side of the road with her father and that her brothers had run across the road shortly before the crash.

Passengers who were in the vehicle with Cornette reportedly testified that they were on their way to the races and that Cornette had set the cruise control. While they recalled a thump, nobody remembered swerving or veering off the road but that they stopped when they heard the thump and his saying he thought he had hit the girl.

Cavins found Cornette guilty and sentenced him to one year in jail and a $100 fine.

10 smartphone must-have features

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

Any new smartphone has a gimmick. Whether it's wireless charging, fingerprint scanning or even eye-tracking, there's always an amazing feature you "can't live without." But let's be honest: many of those features you really can live without.

On the other hand, some of the futuristic technology available in next-generation smartphones is really useful. But which features do you need in your toolbox and which are just the icing on the cake? This definitive list ranks 10 useful features your smartphone needs to have.

1. A long-lasting battery

Your smartphone could have a shrink-ray or turn lead into gold and it would still be useless without juice. There are ways to boost the battery life of your gadget, but at the end of the day a larger battery is going to last you longer.

The Droid Maxx is the undisputed king of batteries. It will get you close to 48 hours of use. The Galaxy Note 3 has a respectable battery life at 12-16 hours of use, but it's still well behind the Maxx. The iPhone 5S is around 10 hours and the Samsung Galaxy S4 brings up the rear at 9 hours.

2. Warp-speed processing

Speed is still the ultimate prize in the smartphone arms race. You notice when apps lag or when swiping takes an eternity.

The iPhone 5s is the fastest smartphone on the market. Its A7 chip is even light-years ahead of blazing fast phones like the Samsung Galaxy S4 or the surprisingly quick Motorola Moto X. But don't despair if your phone feels a little sluggish - there are ways to speed it up.

3. Crystal-clear display
Smartphones are as much about enjoying media as they are about communicating. You watch movies, play games and view photos on your mobile screen and you want the crispest display around.

In this case that award goes to the Samsung Galaxy S4. It has the best resolution and most pixels per inch. The LG G2 and Nokia Lumia 1020 are close behind, but it's Samsung's super AMOLED display technology that sets it ahead.

While screen on the iPhone 5s and 5c can't match the size or pixel density of their competitors, it's still a solid high-resolution display and many people prefer it for its color accuracy.

4. A great camera
You don't have to be a pro photographer to see the difference between modern phone cameras and the ones on your old flip-phone. A great camera is important for more than

Highlands Foundation sponsors Mayo Park

PAINTSVILLE — Big Sandy Community and Technical College (BSCTC) unveiled sponsors of its Mayo Park and ushered in the holidays with a lighting ceremony Monday, Dec. 2.

The Highlands Foundation, a part of the Highlands Health System, was named as the sponsor of the park. The gazebo was named after the Witten and Trimble family (Bob and Debbie Trimble Witten) in honor and memory of former Paintsville Mayor James S. Trimble and former Johnson County Judge James C. Witten.

"It's been a year of celebration at Big Sandy Community and Technical College," said BSCTC President and CEO Dr. George D. Edwards. This year, the college celebrated three milestone anniversaries — 75 years of service at the Mayo campus, 50 years as the former Prestonsburg Community College and 10 years as Big Sandy Community and Technical College. "We've been successful because of our students, our employees and because of the generosity and support of community partners."

Denny Dorton, who chairs the Highlands Foundation, said the addition of the Mayo Park to the city of Paintsville and surrounding area brings attention to health and wellness.

"Our purpose at the foundation is to promote health-care and establish programs for community education and wellness," said Dorton. "Over the years, we have enjoyed a great working relationship with the college, and we are glad to be a part of bringing this beautiful park to the community."

The park, complete with a 24-foot gazebo, pergola, manicured gardens and landscaping, picnic tables, benches and swings, sits on the site of the former Building B on the Mayo campus. Building B, built in 1955, was razed over the summer due to safety concerns.

The construction of the park also demonstrates the college's effort in sustainability. Park benches and swings were constructed of recycled plastic, and all mulch at the park was recycled.

Tommy Trimble, who represented the Trimble and Witten family, said his family, like many others, have benefited from the college's presence in the community.

"My grandmother, May, earned her degree here and later taught classes here at Mayo," he said. "Our family is pleased to be a part of this beautiful addition to our community."

The event ended with the lighting of the park, singing of Christmas carols and a visit from Santa and Mrs. Claus.

Through the Big Sandy College Educational Foundation, Inc., the college has awarded more than $350,000 in scholarships this year and more than $1.3 million since 2010. To learn more about giving opportunities, contact Kelli Hall at (606) 886-7382 or email kelli.hall@kctcs.edu.

THE HIGHLANDS FOUNDATION was announced as the sponsor of the Mayo Park during a formal dedication ceremony held in Paintsville Monday, Dec. 2. Pictured are Kathy Rubado, executive director of the Highlands Foundation; Karen Sellers, BSCTC Board of Directors chair and member of the Highlands Foundation; Denny Dorton, chair of the Highlands Foundation; Dr. George D. Edwards, president and CEO of BSCTC; Dr. Joyce Edwards; and Jean Dorton.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE

A PATRIOT GRAVE marking service was held Saturday, Nov. 23, at Pikeville Cemetery to honor Patriot Pleasant Childers, who served as a soldier in the Revolutionary War in the 5th Regiment of the North Carolina Continental Line and was in the battles of the Guilford Court House and Stone's Ferry. The service was conducted by Rev. Forrest Chilton, who is past KYSSAR president and past president general of the Central District, which consists of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia. Colonel Alfred Coleman, a descendant, talked about the patriot's service record and his involvement in the Revolutionary War and listed some of the families of this area that are also his descendants. The posting of colors and standards was under the direction of the Kentucky Society SAR Color Guard, Preston T. Higgins II commander, with participation by the Governor Isaac Shelby SAR Chapter, the Lafayette SAR Chapter and the Big Sandy SAR Chapter.

NOTHING IS MORE cozy and peaceful than a kitty snuggled up to you on a chilly winter's night in front of a roaring fireplace. But these kitties won't know this comfort unless you can help. The Lawrence County Humane Society Animal Shelter is featuring just a few of the kitties that are available for adoption at the facility. These cats are litter box trained, socialized to be around humans and other cats, and would make wonderful companions in any home. just great photos! You can use your camera for some surprising other things, like visual search.

Nokia's Lumia 1020 includes an elite ZEISS lens, image stabilization and a whopping 41 megapixels. It's clearly the best camera phone because it's more camera than phone!

The iPhone 5s and the HTC One are also very respectable shooters. Their image sensors have larger pixels, which gives you better color range and excellent low-light images.

5. NFC

Near Field Communications allows your smartphone to transmit data to other phones and tablets in the vicinity. It's really handy for sharing pictures and music. You can even use it to pay at stores and restaurants! Plenty of great Android and Windows phones offer NFC, but not Apple.

6. Multiple windows

You'd never settle for seeing just one window on your computer, why would you on your phone? Samsung Galaxy phones, as well as LG's G2, Optimus and Enact are superb at letting you see multiple apps at once. Other Android phones and the iPhone stick to displaying a single app at a time.

7. Plenty of storage space

Most smartphones come with anywhere between 16 and 32 gigabytes of storage. Extra space is a nice luxury, but these days you'll be saving most of your media in the cloud.

8. Infrared remote control

How cool would it be to control your TV with your smartphone? You'll never search for the remote again! Phones like the HTC One and Samsung Galaxy S4 include Infrared transmitters as well as apps to help you control your TV. Of course, there are third-party infrared add-ons for the iPhone and other Android phones.

9. Fingerprint sensor

Apple's most gabbed-about feature on the new 5s was definitely the fingerprint sensor. It's not really any more secure than traditional lockscreen passcodes, but it does save you time. The HTC One Max Android phone also has one, but few other phones do at this time.

10. Wireless charging

This is a handy feature for those of you who don't want to plug in your phone. Just set it down and it's charging! And don't worry; wireless charging is perfectly safe.

Still don't know which phone you should buy? Check out my ultimate smartphone buying guide!
